ULTRA, SHELL AND QUESTAR TO HOST
FREE NATURAL GAS SEMINARS

Pinedale, WY – Representatives from Ultra Resources, Inc., Shell Exploration & Production Company, and Questar Exploration and Production will host free, informational seminars to offer community members a better understanding of the life of a Pinedale natural gas well—from leasing through production.

“Community members have called for additional information about the technical nature of our natural gas operations. We encourage residents to attend these informational sessions where they will have the opportunity to hear from and ask questions of the operators’ technical representatives,” said Diana Hoff, Pinedale Division General Manager for Questar.

The seminars are designed to educate the community about the basic steps involved in securing leases, evaluating the land, drilling wells and producing natural gas including reclamation efforts. Presentations will include discussion about the techniques and technologies in use on the Pinedale Anticline. Industry representatives will present the topics in sequential order and participants are asked to attend one seminar each week to gain a complete understanding of natural gas operations.
